REQUIREMENTS OF STATE BOARD WILL BE EASILY FILLED

DETAILS OF WHAT WE MUST DO WILL BE MADE KNOWN BY MAYOR BRINTON.

THINGS PRACTICALLY ARRANGED

Association Anticipated the Requirements and Have Definite Plans
All Mapped Out.

Until Mayor W. B. Brinton returns from Springfield, at 8:15 this evening, the exact details of the stipulations to which the Citizens' association of Dixon must agree in order to secure the new state epileptic colony will not be known, but officers of the association and prominent business men are very optimistic and anticipate little trouble in meeting the demands to be made by the state board of administration.

In long distance telephone conversations with prominent local business men Mayor Brinton has implied that the conditions required are not unreasonable, and he has said, "let the band play," thereby indicating that there will be no serious hitch in fulfilling the contract that will be submitted.

Have S. D. & E.'s Proposition.

Members of the Citizens' association anticipated many of the conditions that would be stipulated and accordingly were prepared to meet them before submitting this city's claims for the new institution. Vice President Alexander of the I. N. U. and S. D. & E. last week submitted to the officers of the association his company's conditions on which it would extend the street car line to the site of the new colony, and officers of the association say that the traction company's proposition is most reasonable.

It is not believed that any difficulty will be experienced in providing for the power, switch track and water facilities that will be required, and inasmuch as Mayor Brinton's messages were sent following a further conference with the state board yesterday afternoon, it is not anticipated that there will be any real trouble in completing the negotiations.

Officers of the association have held conferences yesterday and today and following a discussion of the tentative contract which will be brought back by Mayor Brinton, a definite statement will be given out by the association.

Praised Site.

In awarding the institution to Dixon the board pronounced it "the most beautiful site in Illinois."

LIFTS EMBARGO ON MEXICAN ARMS

LONG LOOKED FOR MOVE MADE
BY PRESIDENT — PROCLAMATION TO COME SOON.

(By the Associated Press)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3—President Wilson has decided to lift the embargo on the exportation of fire arms to Mexico, is the latest turn the president's policy toward Mexico has taken, and this move is considered very important here.

The proclamation, which will restore the status of the arms question to the point where Provisional President Huerta and the constitutionalists as well, may import arms of any description from the United States into Mexico, will soon be issued from the White House.

MADE RECORD RUN.

Engineer Nellis of the Northwestern made a great run Thursday afternoon when he pulled the Overland Limited from Clinton to Chicago, a distance of 128 miles, in two hours and forty minutes, or 160 minutes. The heavy train was carried at over a mile a minute the greater part of the distance.

J. B. Delahanty, who has been visiting in Nelson, has returned to his home in Clinton, Ia.

MYSTIC WORKERS BAZAR COMMENCE

FOURTH ANNUAL AFFAIR OPEN- ED LAST EVENING AT ROS- BROOK HALL.

The fourth annual bazar of the Dixon lodge Mystic Workers opened at Rosbrook hall last evening with one of the largest Monday evening crowds of the present season. As a result the fair has started with indications of great success and the members of the lodge are most optimistic. Slothower's orchestra furnished the music for the dancing last evening and the prize waltz was won by Will Scriven and Mrs. W. H. Frisby. Another prize waltz will be an attraction Friday evening, while on every other evening attendance prizes will be awarded. The Marquette orchestra will furnish the music this evening.

CHICAGO WOMEN IN BATTLE FOR VOTES

BIG CAMPAIGN ON TODAY TO GET WOMEN TO REGISTER SO
THEY MAY BALLOT.

FIFTY THOUSAND WOMEN WORK

Party and Non-Partisan Clubs Work to Get Women Out to Registration Today.

(By the Associated Press)

Chicago, Feb. 3—Fifty thousand women, organized under political leaders and non-partisan organization clubs, worked today to get the unorganized women to go to the polls in their various precincts and register as voters, that they might be qualified to cast a ballot at the polls at the next election. The women are registering freely, scores of them that are business women registering on their way to work this morning.

Women Clerks Work.

Seven hundred women acted as clerks and judges at the polls and assisted in registering the voters. An automobile scouting party looking for women to get them to register, entered one cottage and found a mother working over a wash tub. They told her they wanted her to go with them and register as a voter. She said: "Sure, I'll go and register if some of youse will get in here and finish this washing." The men retreated hastily but in good order. She promised them she would go out and register as soon as she finished the wash.

Mrs. B. F. Kante claimed the honor of being the first woman to register in Chicago today, but the precinct clock was five minutes fast and she really voted at 7:55, while the polls were not officially open until 8 o'clock.

Mayor Harrison's wife and her three household maids all registered and gave their ages.

(By the Associated Press)

Port au Prince, Haiti, Feb. 3—The result of the battle between the rival revolutionary forces of Senator Davilmar Theodore and General Orestes Zamor was a disastrous defeat for the former.

Three hundred men of the opposing armies were killed in the battle at Gonaives and Theodore's forces were routed. General Zamor has declared himself president of Haiti by virtue of his victory.

Port au Prince, Haiti, Feb. 3—The committee on public safety of this city has made a formal demand that all troops of foreign powers be immediately withdrawn from the capital of the recently revolt ridden republic. The demand contains the explanation that the presence of troops is no longer required to protect property and their occupancy is undesired.

There are serious disorders in the southern part of the republic and a number of leading revolutionaries have been executed there.

"DRY" PETITION WAS FILED TODAY

REV. F. D. STONE PRESENTED
DOCUMENT TO TOWN CLERK
PALMER AT NOON.

400 MEN; 800 WOMEN

Signed Petition—Rockford and Freeport Will Vote on the Question.

The "wet or dry" question will be an issue at the Dixon town election of April 7. This was assured at 12 o'clock noon today when Rev. F. D. Stone filed with Town Clerk Palmer the petition of the "drys" asking that the question "Shall Dixon town ship become local option territory?" be submitted to the voters at that time.

Rev. Stone announced that the petition carried about 1200 names, about 800 women affixing their signatures to the document, but it is claimed that the number of male voters who have signed the petition is sufficient to make it legal, even though the courts rule that women have no legal right to act in that capacity.

At Freeport.

It is also practically certain that the wet and dry question will be an issue at Rockford and Freeport at the coming election. The leaders of the local option forces at Freeport, now wet, declare they have over 1200 names and that at least 1500 residents of that city will have signed the paper before it is filed with the town clerk Wednesday.

At Rockford.

At Rockford, which has been the dry's main city in the state, the wet interests will force the vote this spring and the battle will be a hard one. The wets claim to have 7000 names to their petition, a claim that is denied by the dry interests.

Among other cities in this vicinity which will vote on the question are Elgin, Pecatonica and Belvidere.

GOOD MEETING AT NACHUSA THIS EVE

MISS MABEL CARNEY WILL LEC-TURE ON "COMMUNITY BUILD-

MRS. IDA STRONG KILLED BY BIG CAR

6:10 WEST BOUND INTERURBAN
MONDAY EVENING STRUCK WOMAN.

WAS WALKING ALONG TRACKS

Delivered to—Have Slipped—When Stepping to Side of the Tracks.

Mrs. Ida M. Strong, 705 Second street, an employee at the Borden milk factory, was struck and almost instantly killed by a westbound S. D. & E. interurban car at 6:10 o'clock last evening, the tragedy taking place near the Enterprise grocery on West Fellows street.

Mrs. Strong, in company with Misses Gertrude and Nellie Blackburn, 524 Crawford avenue, was returning from work and the three were walking along the car tracks because of the slippery condition of the sidewalk. As they came under the Illinois Central viaduct, they noticed the car approaching and the two Blackburn girls, who were in front of Mrs. Strong as they neared the grocery, stepped to the south side of the tracks, thinking Mrs. Strong had done the same.

Saw the Car.

There is no doubt that the unfortunate woman saw the approaching car, for when Motorman Harry Himes, who with Conductor Ben Smith was in charge of the car, sounded the whistle she also stepped to one side. However, she either slipped or did not realize her proximity to the tracks, for the side of the car struck her, crushing her skull.

Motorman Himes had started to check the progress of the car for the curve to the viaduct and had also applied the brakes more than usual when he saw the woman approaching, and therefore was able to bring the big car—the new one—to a stop in about two carlengths.

He and Conductor Smith immediately rushed to the woman's assistance and she was carried into the grocery store, and Doctors Powis and E. B. Owens were called. Mrs. Strong was beyond human aid, however, long before the physicians arrived, as she lived but a few minutes after being struck. Her remains were taken to Morris & Preston's undertaking rooms, and the victim's son, who resides in Belvidere, was notified.

Open Verdict.

Coroner Stephan impaneled the following jury this afternoon, an open verdict in accordance with the above facts and attaching no blame for the accident to the S. D. & E. being returned: M. D. Smith, Ulrich N. McKenney, Angier Wilson, R. C. Bovey, Wm. Dykeman and J. P. Hurley.

The funeral of the unfortunate woman will be held at the Morris & Preston chapel Thursday at 2:30 p. m., with burial at Oakwood.

The deceased was born in this city Nov. 10, 1858, and is survived by her son Frank, who is employed at the National Sewing Machine Works at Belvidere.

UNION BASE BALL TEAM IS ASSURED

DIXON TEAM SHOULD BE CON-
TENDERS FOR STATE CHAMPIONSHIP.

The boys of Dixon high schools, the north and south sides, are looking forward to a baseball team this season that will be a strong contender for the state championship. At a meeting of the players held at the Y. M. C. A. Monday afternoon after school, at which time officers were elected, the enthusiasm of the followers of the game was apparent. Many of last year's speedy team are still in school and as a result a fast organization is assured. As soon as possible the boys will be called out to practice and in the meantime a schedule will be arranged. The following officers were elected:
Faculty Manager—Prof. Anderson
Student Manager—Paul Byers
Coach—Prof. Hornrich.

Why do so many automobile owners buy a new car each year and why do they so frequently buy a different make each year? Simply because they are dissatisfied; or if they do buy the same make of car each year they do it thinking the new model will be more satisfactory than the old, says J. W. Thier, Franklin dealer here.

If a man is satisfied there is no reason for sacrificing on his car and buying a new one. Of course, if his financial circumstances are such that he can gratify the whim of having the very latest it is different, but the majority of owners today are not so financially well off that they can keep indulging themselves in that way.

Frequently buying is not economical and loss through depreciation is excessive. It is a burden that owners generally cannot continue to stand. It is an expense that is entering into consideration in the great wave of economical sentiment now manifesting itself in the automobile world. Automobile satisfaction does not come from any one feature of a car. The great excellence of any one make must lie in the full development of each and every feature. This will result in a satisfaction that must necessarily include easy riding, easy driving, comfort, economy and long life. This cannot come from dependence on any one or two points of construction. It must be built in to the car in every detail.

For sale bills visit the Evening Telegraph, Dixon, Ill., telephone No. 5. For Sale: A modern residence property in West Brooklyn. The price is moderate considering the equipment of the place and there is no doubt but that any purchaser will find it a pleasant home. Henry F. Gehant.

The regular meeting night for the month of February for the Foresters will take place the Thursday evening during the tournament. Very likely the tournament will skip that night as a very important meeting is scheduled by the Chief Ranger. A special meeting was held Friday evening and four more candidates were given the preliminaries preparatory to their initiation Feb. 8th. The class now numbers seven or eight, with a few more likely candidates in view. The initiation will take place in the opera house to permit of plenty of room for a large attendance, for on such occasions many visitors from neighboring courts are present to witness the ceremonies. The tournament scheduled for the week of February 9th to 15th is also attracting much attention and already a big majority of the membership of the court has signified their intention to participate by handing in their names. Those who have not handed in their names, to enter the tournament, should do so at once so the captains of the two teams can arrange their line of battle. The added feature of allowing those who do not play pool to decide their contest at cards is an attractive advantage.

Jule Chevalley is ill at his room in the hotel with an attack of la grippe. F. W. Meyer has been enjoying large crowds at his clearing sale this week. This is annual affair at this store after inventory and is watched for by the people of this vicinity with much eagerness. M. J. Bieschke is also having a similar sale so that lots of bargains are to be had in West Brooklyn by trading here these days.

George Dinges was in town from South Brooklyn Saturday.

Horticulture; Safety Valve for Business and Professional Men

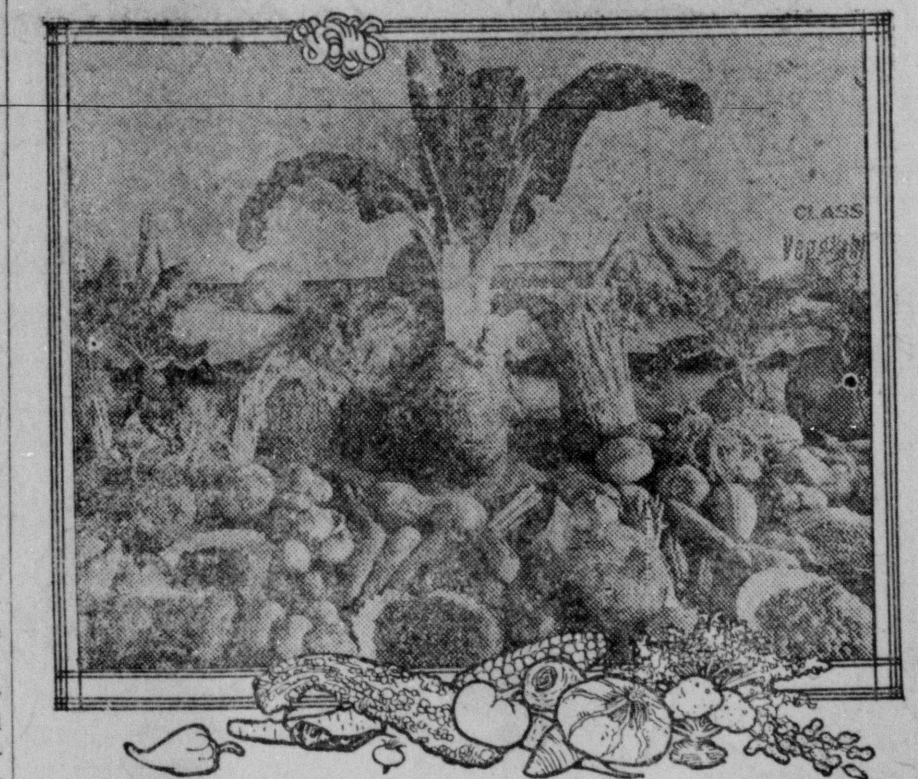

By Judge William Prentiss, Chicago, Before the Illinois State Horticultural Society at University of Illinois.

HORTICULTURE is different from grain or stock farming, or both combined.

It is within the reach of many who could never own one of these or carry it on if they had it. Horticulture is especially adapted to the person, man or woman, of small or comparatively small means. It may be limited to a yard about the dwelling or a small garden, or it may be extended to any size as ability and inclination may dictate.

One of the dangers to be avoided is in attempting to cover too much trees in anticipation of a coming day when they would require rest from business and recreation, and they would find this even better than life insurance or a right in an old folks' home. In this way an orchard could be grown, small or large as ability and inclination suggested. This could be done at a comparatively small outlay at any one time. In case changed conditions made it necessary or desirable, this property could be sold or exchanged and it could go to another who could utilize and enjoy it. In the meantime he who had made the improvement would have gotten the healthful exercise, the pleasurable pursuit, and hopeful anticipation. These would be secure at least, and in ground. I confess to making that mistake. If the person is pursuing his calling in the less populous, small, or medium sized city or in a small town, he might have all he desired or was able to care for during his busiest years in his regular calling in the yard about his dwelling or in a garden near by. He could set out fruit trees, vines, bushes or plants in the back yard, or at the sides of the house or in the front yard.

An hour or so in the morning before going to business or on returning home in the evening or both has accomplished wonders in horticulture on a small scale. With judgment, reasonable industry, regular habit and persistence a very great deal can be many, if not in all cases, there would be dollars saved in the little farm that might have otherwise gotten away, with nothing to show for them. Not only is horticulture profitable to the very weary business and professional man in material income, in health and pleasure, but it educates his mind and it elevates his soul. It makes him a better citizen, a juster man to his fellows. He sees, or may see if he will, something besides the dollars, the material things of this world. It helps him to feel and know the presence of the Infinite everywhere. He beholds, or may behold, the beauty and harmony of God's laws. Often the business man succeeds best when another just as obtained in this way. Fruit trees if cared for properly, cultivated, fertilized, sprayed, pruned and protected, may not only be prolific in fruitage, but ornament the premises, fill the air with perfume and beauty in blooming time and be a source of interest and pleasure all through the growing season.

Many professional and business men, if they only thought so and would try, could have a few acres, a small farm in the country set out ahead in

Spare the Heifer Calves and You Will Add to Your Income

By W. J. Fraser, Professor of Dairy Farming, University of Illinois.

Do not sacrifice heifer calves—not the good ones. An experiment at the University of Illinois shows that:

$3.45 Worth of Milk Raises a Calf. The sale value of the milk fed these calves was as follows:

150 pounds of whole milk at $1.50 per 100 $2.25
400 pounds of skim milk at 30 cents per 100 1.20

Total $3.45

And these prices of milk are liberal, especially as they are paid at the farm, and no money or labor is expended in hauling the milk to market. It is not so expensive to raise a calf as the dairyman have thought. The grain and hay consumed by heifers of high quality will give much better returns than the same feed fed to cows.

Great Dairy Sayings Identified. "It costs too much to raise the calves; we can't afford the milk!" Where did this wonderful watchword come from and what makes it so popular? It recalls another great dairy saying of the same sort: "The moon is made of green cheese." They both shed light of the same kind—moonshine. Selling the heifer calves of good cows is one step worse than killing the goose that lays the golden egg; it is throwing the egg away after it is laid.

It is better to sell cows than to buy them. One Illinois dairyman who raises his heifer calves sold $2,375 worth of good dairy cows in eight years. That is a very good income to add to the sales of milk.

Every One Has His Peculiarities. Restoring Health, Is Surely Ours.

That fits our talk 'cause well balanced minds, active brains and vigorous bodies are not so numerous! If you think they are, let me suggest that you first look

Is Your House a Home?

The model housekeeper whose house is always in order may still exist. I have only met her once in my life. Her house was very orderly, there was nothing out of place, she had nothing she did not use, yet it was a cheerless looking home—a home I am not going to call it. We will know a real home the minute our feet cross the threshold. Yet the explanation is not easy to make. Every one knows the feeling, but few would attempt to define it. The house itself is not responsible. We all have known a house where two families have lived, one after the other. It remained just a house, nothing more, while one family lived there, and became a home the very day the other family moved in and the mother prepared the first meal.—Exchange.

Woe in Clintonville.

To a theatrical trade paper the manager of a troupe of strollers sent this heart sob about his experiences: "To break a big jump I was compelled to make Clintonville. While walking from the depot to the town I asked three people where the opera house was. Two of them did not seem to know; the third one replied: 'Walk down the next side street to the worst-looking building on the street. That's it.' I located said barn and worked until dark getting out tonighters. At 8:30 there were five people in the house, and we packed up. May the Lord help any other show playing here, for it's a cinch the management won't."

Ancient Covenant of Blood.

In the world's most ancient records—the monuments of Egypt—we find evidence of the existence of the covenant of blood. Even then it seems to have been a custom to covenant by tasting the blood from another's arm. In the "Book of the Dead," the most ancient and most important of the sacred books of the Egyptians, there are several references to blood covenanting and incidental mention of the tasting of blood by gods and by men. An inscription on an ancient Egyptian monument details a legend of the rebellion of mankind against the gods; of an edict of destruction against the human race; of a divine interposition for the rescue of the doomed people. In this legend a prominent part is given to human blood mixed with the juice of mandrakes (love apples) and prepared as a drink to propitiate the offended gods.

Indian Warfare Films.

The stirring scenes of frontier life are to be perpetuated in motion pictures, and especially the vanishing civilization of the red men. The Army and Navy Journal describes the recent journey to Pine Ridge of General Miles, accompanied by Generals Lee, Maus and Baldwin, to act again the peace pact between the Indians and whites that averted a bad Indian war in the winter of 1890-91. The allegiance there pledged to the White Father at Washington is still unbroken. Pictures of the battle at Wounded Knee have been reproduced with the help of its still living participants. Other Indian fights, the most notable being that with War Donnet in 1876, in which Buffalo Bill participated, have been reproduced for film records that will soon be spread before the millions who patronize the cinema theaters.

Dementicwn

When it was predicted in this sheet yesterday that six weeks of good weather were assured because Mr. Ground Hog was unable to see his shadow, it was snowing like the blazes outdoors, and our weather editor had no way of knowing that the blankety blank sun was about to shine late in the afternoon. Therefore, gentle reader, your apology is accepted.

However, the weather man informs us that the ground hog went to sleep after he first stuck his head out in the a. m. and didn't know what a good day it was later.

In which case we all unite in forgetting the pesky beast and yell, "Hooray!" because of the joyful tidings that came from Springfield along with the sunshine.

And that grin on Mayor Brinton's face is really and truly permanent. The only thing that is needed now to complete our civic happiness is boulevard lights on the ave.

We note by an Aurora paper that a certain Mrs. Pease, who was suing for alimony, has been awarded $125 per mo. That should appease her some. (Don't miss this one. We consider it some choke).

No, dear heart, Mexican generals are not as fierce as their pictures appear to make them. That expression you notice is natural after one has finished eating a bowl of chile con carne.

With the cut up the back, and the cut down the front, not to mention the high jabs up the sides, one is almost afraid if a woman unbuttons her new fashioned gown it will disappear entirely.

No, Bobby, your mother's injunction, as she goes away, that you must look after the house just as your father would, does not mean that you must kiss the cook.

Some Big Pecan Trees.

Like the Persian walnut the pecan long has been grown in this country, but its commercial possibilities were neglected. Some of the trees are of enormous size and known to be very old. In Milledgeville, Ga., an old pecan tree stands which is known to have been planted by the Indians over 100 years ago. The owner values it so highly that he has recently taken out $300 fire insurance on it because it has been so closely surrounded by buildings that it is endangered. The largest pecan tree on record is near Little Falls, Okla. It has an altitude of 130 feet, a spread of 110 feet and a trunk circumference of 23 feet taken four feet from the ground. In Louisiana, Oklahoma, Arkansas and other sections pecan trees may be found in forests, reaching 170 feet in height.

Old Estimate of Field Hands.

The sixteenth century earl of Warwick stayed the slaughter after the suppression of Kett's rising by an argument which shows how completely agricultural workers were regarded as mere "hands." Of the 20,000 insurgents who had encamped with Kett on Household Heath, 2,000 or 5,000 had been killed in the battle—the strength of the victors lying in German and Italian mercenaries. Kett himself was hanged from the walls of Norwich castle, 45 others were hanged, drawn and quartered in the market place, and 500 in all are said to have been executed. Warwick checked the demand for increasing the number of victims by asking, "What shall we do, then? Hold the plow ourselves, play the carters, and labor the ground with our own hands?"

Military Measure Resented.

One hundred years ago President Madison sent a special message to congress requesting that body to pass an embargo act to prohibit all exports from the United States. The purpose was to prevent the British armies in America and the British fleets that were blockading our coasts from receiving food and supplies. On December 17 congress voted to establish the embargo, to continue in effect until January 1, 1815. The act met with considerable opposition, particularly from the coast states, because of the disastrous results to their commerce. The press of the time bitterly denounced the measure. By its opponents the act was commonly referred to as, reading the title backward, the "O grab me act."

Swallow's Long Flight.

The long flight of a swallow was recently reported. A nestling swallow which was "ringed" at Skelmorlie, Ayrshire, on July 27, 1912, was found at Riet Valtet, Orange river colony, on March 14, 1913.

"All is Well That Ends Well"

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness, sleeplessness and general ill health. Why? Because the food is not assimilated and carried to the blood. On the other hand, the blood is charged with poisons which come from this disordered digestion. In turn, the nerves are not fed on good, red blood and we see those symptoms of nervous breakdown. It is not hard work that does it, but poor stomach work. With poor thin blood the body is not protected against the attack of germs of grip—bronchitis—consumption. Fortify the body now with

MRS. ROBERT GOELET, LEADER IN "FOUR HUNDRED," BRINGS SUIT FOR DIVORCE AGAINST MILLIONAIRE

Mrs. Robert Goelet, one of a family famous in New York and Philadelphia society for two generations, has stirred society by beginning suit for divorce against her husband, bringing to light differences which, it is said, members of their set knew for more than a year. If the case is tried in public—however, they seldom do things like that in Newport where the suit was filed—it will draw large audiences. Goelet's father left him $30,000,000 in New York real estate. Mrs. Goelet was the daughter of Henry Whelen, prominent socially and financially in Philadelphia.

from 2 to 5 o'clock.

Games were played, after which a supper was served the little folks.

The dining room was prettily decorated with tiny red hearts and tinsel entwined with red and green crepe paper, making a pretty scene with the glow from the lighted candles on the birthday cake.

After supper all departed for home leaving many pretty gifts for Miss Erma and wishing her many happy birthdays.

Surprise Party.

MME. MERRI'S ADVICE

THREE SUGGESTIONS FOR AMUS-ING ENTERTAINMENTS.

"Winter Garden Party" Will Be Found an Excellent Afternoon Pastime
—Some Suitable Objects for an "Art Party."

The children were clamoring for a new game to play, just like you girls (and boys, too) write and ask me to tell you something new to play at your parties, and after a brain-rocking time I accidentally found this, which is carried out exactly like "stage coach," only the girls are all given names of flowers and the boys of insects, bugs, etc., like Midge, Grub, Moth, Spider, Wasp, Mosquito, Fly, Hornet, Ant, etc., and a starter for the girls would be Heliotrope, Violet, Mignonette, Pansy, Rose, Lily, Morning-glory, Forget-me-not, etc.

"The Butterfly" takes the place of the "driver" in "stage coach," and tells the story; when "sunshine" is mentioned, all the flowers and insects move around swiftly. When rain is mentioned, flowers throw up their heads, insects scurry away from the flowers. When the flowers are mentioned by name, the flower is obliged to answer by mentioning another flower insect. When the gardener or a garden tool is spoken of, the flowers bow their heads or bend their bodies. The insects shrink away, and wander around the room; when the butterfly is making only general remarks, the insects move around the flowers making characteristic remarks about themselves, or about the emblems of the flowers in the garden. If a flower or an insect fails to respond when mentioned, a forfeit is demanded.

Objects for an "Art Gallery."
Some time ago I was requested to give a list of objects suitable to use in getting up a fake "art gallery" for which a small admission could be charged, as an addition to a bazar, where there were all sorts of devices to catch pennies. I think these suggestions are good ones:

Subjects. Answers.
Out for the Night.....Candle in candlestick
Departed Days.....Last year's calendar
Scene in Bermuda.....Onions
We Part to Meet Again.....Scissors
The Reigning Favorite.....Umbrella
Home of Burns.....Flatiron
The Greatest Bet Ever Made.....Alphabet
Cole's Memorials of the Great.....Cinders
The Four Seasons.....Mustard, vinegar, salt and pepper
A Morning Call.....A bell
Assorted Liquors.....Whip, switch and slipper
The Skipper's Home.....Cheese
An Absorbing Subject.....Blotting pad
A Dancing Entertainment.....A ball
Bound to Shine.....Bottle of shoe blacking

A German "Coffee."
We have had afternoon teas for so long that an invitation to a German "coffee" was quite a novelty, and this is the season to give such an affair, for the real German imported holiday cakes are for sale in most of the large bakeries and grocery stores. These cakes served with coffee are all that is necessary in way of refreshments. Decorations of the German and American flags with wee silk flags (German) for favors, as the guests partake of coffee, will be appropriate, and a short program of German songs would be delightful. If the hours are late in the afternoon and the men may be expected to drop in, have eggnog, beer or ale in steins, as it is still the holiday season and will be, until after "Twelfth Night" on the sixth.

VELVET WITH ERMINE

Smart hat of black velvet relieved with a narrow band of ermine.

Blouse Revival.
The cross-over blouse, which was popular some fifteen years ago, has been revived. This blouse is usually made of lace net, and its principal charm is that it is devoid of a single button or hook.

The blouse has two long fichu ends, which the wearer crosses over her waist and fastens either in front or at the back. She is thus enabled to make the V-shaped opening at the neck high or low to suit her own taste.

Few blouses in net or nylon fasten at the back, and even those with high collars button down the front. Full-length or three-quarter length sleeves are the rule.

Poplin Petticoat.
A white petticoat of wash poplin closely fitted to the figure and finished around the bottom with embroidered scallops is dainty, more durable and less expensive than one made of silk.

MR. AND MRS. WREN

How Home Was Saved for the Small Songsters.

Human Ingenuity Outwitted Sparrows
Determined to Drive Them From Abode That Had Been Provided for Them.

Accepting the open invitation of a large cigar box, tacked on the wall, long way up and down, and perforated with a hole as large as a half dollar piece, Jenny Wren and her husband stopped with us this spring, and delighted us with their domestic felicity all summer long. We even made a little perch just beneath their doorway, to which they took kindly, and where they would perch and sing their masterpieces of heavenly joy.

Alas, fatal mistake! The saucy English sparrows fooled around the neighborhood two months before they discovered that perch. Then a pair of them found it, and learned they could get their heads in the hole. Forthwith war ensued, and the bloodthirsty intruders dragged out the babies and dropped them on the ground, after a pitched battle with Jenny Wren and her husband, and amid the anguished tears of two children. The babies were returned by me, under the watchful eyes of their parents, who immediately came back to the nest. The tragedy was repeated, and then the perch was torn away. The wrens went through the hole without it and with perfect ease, and the sparrows were checkmated. It took them two days to learn that they could hang to that hole with their feet, just as the wrens did, and Jenny and her husband were again driven away.

In an almost human way the tiny pair seemed to appeal to me for protection. I then took a card and cut a hole in it about as large as a quarter, and this I tacked over the larger opening in the cigar box. Immediately as I came down from the ladder the waiting wrens reassumed possession of their domicile, and though the opening was rather small for them, they cheerfully put up with this inconvenience.

The sparrows returned, but gave up the job when they saw the new doorway. Thus was peace restored in the family of the dear little songsters, and the entire human family rejoiced with them. It was a battle of human wits against those plucky little "boot-blacks" of the bird race—the English sparrows. Never have we had such bewitching little friends as Mr. and Mrs. Wren, with their friendly chatter and joyous, full-throated song, morning, noon and evening; the insect diet for their precious youngsters often being gathered at our very feet. —J. P. Lowry in Our Dumb Animals.

Mental Telepathy.

A remarkable case of mental telepathy is connected with the death of a commercial traveler named Stenner, who was fatally injured by falling over the Clifton Rocks, at Cheltenham, England, not long since. At the time of the accident his wife was entertaining visitors. Suddenly she became greatly agitated, and declared that she heard screams. No one else heard them, and a search failed to reveal the cause of her alarm. Next morning she learnt of the accident to her husband. Stenner went for a walk on the cliffs. He sat down on a seat and fell asleep. A short time after, he awoke, feeling himself falling. He landed among bushes on a ledge of the cliff, but his back was broken by the fall and he was paralyzed from the waist downwards. Fearing that he might fall further, as there was a drop of two hundred feet to the bottom of the cliff, he pulled himself by his arms to a more secure position and lay there half the night calling for help. A policeman found him at five in the morning.

Big Obstacle.

"What broke up the club?" asked one young lady from Bryn Mawr to her friend, both being members of the club for girls who would not marry a man getting less than $10,000 a year. "A young clerk getting $10 a week," said Ida, as the conductor tried not to smile.—Philadelphia Press.

WHEN YOU'RE SICK YOUR WAGES STOP

You know what that means—misery—worry—big bills—debt!

You know you can't afford to get sick. Keeping in good health means food and clothing for you and your family. It is up to you to take care of yourself. It is up to you, whenever you don't feel right, to strengthen you, build you up, ward off worse sickness—protect you and your family. That thing we have is Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion. In offering it to you, we protect you against money risk, by personally promising you that, if it does not restore your health, we will give back your money without word or question. We believe it is the best builder of health, energy and strength you can get. It is helping many of your neighbors. If it don't help you, we will give back your money.

Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion is composed principally of pure Olive Oil and the Hydrophosphites. Each has long been endorsed by successful physicians. Here they are for the first time combined. The result is a remarkable nerve, blood and strength building remedy that is both food and medicine. For all who are nervous, run down and debilitated—no matter what the cause; for old people; for convalescents; for puny children, we know of nothing that will give health and strength as quickly as Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion. It is a real builder of good blood, strong muscles, good digestion. Pleasant to take, it contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. If you don't feel well, economize both money and strength by beginning today to take Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion. Sold only at the Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us. $1.00. FEBRUARY 3 1914

A STRENUOUS SUMMER IS COMING.

Looking at the situation from any angle you choose, even the casual observer would decide that next summer in Dixon will be a good one if we are ever to have one. Labor will be more scarce than eggs were this winter and should be as high priced, which will work out to the advantage of all. There never has been a time in the history of Dixon when things were opening up better than they are now.

When the state commences operations on the epileptic colony buildings, roads, and numerous other improvements, which we hope will be this year, they will employ a small army. The new shoe factory is taking on more help constantly and that institution alone would cause a shortage in available labor. Many new houses are needed in Dixon and their erection will give employment to scores. The state requires a street railway running to their buildings on the new grounds and a large number of men will be needed to put this through. There will be a great deal of public improvement in the way of street paving, etc. in Dixon during the coming summer and a transmission line for power must be built to the new state institution.

All of this is going to require the services of hundreds of men; hundreds more than we have idle in Dixon, and men must be imported. The idle men of Dixon and vicinity will be given employment and plenty of it and the men brought in will be paid good wages. They must all live in Dixon and must spend their money here, and Dixon must surely benefit. A new era is upon us.

Well, we can take our hats off and bow low to Dixon's democratic chieftain, Mayor Brinton. To him a most entirely is due credit for securing the epileptic colony for Dixon and Lee county. Without him we surely would have lost it. This is the biggest, but by no means the only good thing that Mr. Brinton has accomplished for Dixon. Perhaps we should not even say the biggest thing, for the steady running of the Grand Detour plow shops has done much to keep Dixon's prosperity up to the high water mark, and at a time when it was sorely needed.

And Sterlings, poor, poor POOR OLD STERLING! She chokes and splutters with agonizing envy. She will be a subject for our new colony. This is a cold, cold world for Sterling. Her booster club is evidently huddling around some grocery store store telling war stories and warming its cold digits. Didn't Sterling say something awhile ago about annexing Dixon as a suburb? Sterling's goat has strayed from the back pasture.

If we were to have our choice of an insane and an epileptic hospital for neighbors, we would prefer the latter. We begin to feel now that the insane hospital affair was a lucky escape for Dixon.

We are tempted to even take back what we said about the pulmotor and the council. The mayor, at least, has evidently had something else on his mind lately, and he will turn back to some of these details now.

On Time

By WALT MASON

This truth I'm spreading near and far, by means of loosed rhyme: You'd better do without a car than buy a car on time. Who are the folks who fume and fret, the while their bosoms bleed? They are the ones who go in debt for things they do not need. Their names would fill a catalogue in this debt-ridden clime; you'd better do without a dog than buy a dog on time. How happy is the man who knows he does not owe a bone! The grosser sorts of griefs and woes are leaving him alone; the "charge it" course he won't indorse, nor owe a man a dime; you'd better do without a horse than buy a horse on time. The man who always pays his way is honored everywhere, and merchants want his trade and pray that they may have a share; collectors do not dog his heels. nor lawyers haunt his door; he pays for what he buys with wheels composed of silver ore. And such a man enjoys this life, and finds the world sublime; you'd better do without a wife than get a wife on time.

PEORIA SHROUDED IN DENSEST FOG

TRAFFIC IN BUSINESS PORTION SUSPENDED BECAUSE OF HEAVY FOG.

(By the Associated Press) Peoria, Ill., Feb. 3.—A fog that was the worst ever in the history of Peoria settled over the city this morning and was so dense that, especially in the downtown district, traffic was practically at a standstill for some time. Street lights made no impression on the white cloud that was as impenetrable as the deepest darkness.

CARROLL REILLEY IS SHOT IN EYE

BULLET FROM AIR GUN STRIKES LAD—NEARLY LOSES SIGHT AS THE RESULT.

Carroll, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reilley, had a narrow escape from losing the sight of an eye Saturday afternoon when he was shot immediately under the eye by a B. B. from an air gun in the hands of another lad. The attention of a physician was necessary. There have been a number of complaints regarding the use of these guns and the authorities may find it necessary to take some action.

FAMILY THEATRE

Lester & Hines, a clever team, opened at the Family last evening and found favor at once. The sketch is entertaining and prettily costumed. Romanelli, a violinist, was also a feature and is billed as the man who makes the violin talk, and he deserves the title as his work was very superior. Pictures tonight: The Option, Abide With Me, The $10,000 Bride.

TRAIL OF PLEASSED PATRONS.

Behind the Frank Winger varieties of musical comedies is a trail of pleased patrons. The novelty of the attractions, the fullness of the productions, the completeness of the setting, elaborateness of costumes, and merit of performances has made the German comedian more popular than ever. Although the Wingers have played in many cities in other years, this season promises to set a new high water mark for the popular priced entertainment.

KANSAS BOY IS SENT TO OKLAHOMA BY PARCEL POST FOR 18 CENTS.

(By the Associated Press) Wellington, Kas., Feb. 3.—Mrs. E. H. Stittley today received her little two year old nephew by parcel post, from his grandmother in Stratford, Okla. The bundle bore a tag around its neck and cost 18 cents postage to send it through the mail. The strange parcel post package was transported 25 miles by rural mail carrier before it could be gotten to a railroad. The package had a fine time riding in the mail car and sharing the mail clerk's unches.

DEFEAT THE ASIATIC IMMIGRATION CLAUSE

REPUBLICANS IN HOUSE PRE-VAIL UPON DEMOCRATS TO HELP DOWN AMENDMENT.

(By the Associated Press) Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—All of the Asiatic Exclusion amendments to the immigration bill were overwhelmingly defeated in the house this afternoon after a hot debate in which republicans and democrats joined in urging the defeat. The republicans' appeal to the democrats was to leave the Asiatic problem free from all legislative entanglements as long as the president is endeavoring to handle the problem diplomatically.

VOTE TO OUST TAMMANY CHIEF

National Democratic Club Near Riot When Motion Is Declared Carried.

BLAME GRAFT FOR DEFEAT

Chief's Friends to Protest Before Organization's Board of Governors —Assert That Action Was Not Legal.

New York, Feb. 3.—The National Democratic club held a meeting last night that ended in disorder after a resolution demanding that Charles F. Murphy be retired from the leadership of Tammany Hall and from all participation in party affairs had been declared adopted on an aye and nay vote. Murphy partisans and opponents started counter demonstrations. Fists were shaken freely, threats were made and hard names used. It was fully ten minutes before a semblance of order was restored.

Friends of Murphy declared the resolution had been carried by an illegal vote. Demands for a ballot vote were unheeded and they said they would pretest to the organization's board of governors.

Sponsored by Club's Head.
The resolution was introduced by City Court Justice Edward F. O'Dwyer, president of the club. A bitter speech in reply to the resolution was made by Thomas F. Smith, secretary of Tammany Hall, whose demand that the resolution be tabled was ignored by Justice O'Dwyer.

Prior to introducing the resolution Justice O'Dwyer reviewed Democratic successes in state and city and declared that the defeat of the entire ticket at the last election, "for the first time in the history of the party by a majority of the voters," was not the fault of the candidates.

Blamed to Graft Charges.
"The cause that led to our defeat," he continued, "was the issue that was presented to the people charging us with corruption and with being grafters. And, gentlemen, evidence has been produced since in a court of record that proved some of those charges. The people have arrived at a verdict that proved some of those charges. are true. If we ever want to go before the people again we will have to get rid of that element in our party that is responsible for this state of affairs."

After the meeting Justice O'Dwyer said the resolution had been adopted in a regular manner and that the club would go ahead with its plans to change the leadership and reorganize the party.

ASK STEEL REBATE QUIZ

Senate Adopts Resolution Asking
Commerce Body to Act.

Trap by Lamar Feared—Public Hearing Probably Will Be Held
Within Few Days.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Following a spirited debate the senate adopted by 41 to 11 Senator Norris' resolution requesting the interstate commerce commission to ascertain whether in the last six years the United States Steel corporation has been guilty of giving or receiving rebates.

The measure adopted was a substitute for the Lane resolution, favorably reported by the senate committee on interstate commerce.

This remarkable legislative incident began with the introduction of the resolution by Senator Lane of Oregon at the suggestion of William H. Green of Creighton, Neb., who conducts a weekly newspaper at that place and who was one of the government's witnesses in the case against the International Harvester company. Green informed Senator Lane that he would give the names of witnesses who could give absolute evidence of violation of the law by the United States Steel corporation within the last six years if the senate would aid him in obtaining a public hearing before the interstate commerce commission. Senator Lane was willing to rely on the assurances of Green.

The chairman of the interstate commerce commission testified that David H. Lamar, "the wolf of Wall street," had offered to furnish the commission evidence of rebates and preferences, but the commission declined to employ an attorney of his designation. The connection of Lamar with the case inclined some members of the committee to the belief it was being drawn into some sort of a stock-jobbing movement, but the senate was unwilling not to take some action.

As adopted the resolution merely "requests" the interstate commerce commission to investigate a matter which it is already competent to inquire into. A public hearing probably will be held by the commission within the next few days to permit Green to present his charges. Lamar watched final disposition of the resolution from the senate gallery.

PHONE FIRM IN TWO COURTS

Receivers for Central Union in Indi-

Columbus, O., Feb. 3.—Receivers for the Central Union Telephone company in Ohio were appointed in court on application of E. A. Reed, general manager. The suit followed similar action at Chicago because of an injunction which tied up the funds of the company. The court appointed the same receivers named by the Chicago court.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 3.—Receivers for the Central Union Telephone company in Indiana were appointed in the superior court on petition of the same stockholders who had instituted similar action in Chicago. John A. Moriarty of Indianapolis and the receivers named in Chicago were appointed.

DENY AGREEMENTS ON STEEL

Witnesses in Dissolution Suit Say
Competition Rules Prices.

New York, Feb. 3.—Several witnesses for the defense in the government's dissolution suit against the United States Steel corporation testified here that prices in the industry are not fixed by agreement but are competitive.

Austen Davis Mixel, general sales against of the Bethlehem Steel company, testified that the company's prices in every branch of output were not determined by an association of manufacturers.

"No price was ever made for any consideration aside from the needs of the mill and market conditions," said the witness.

PINDELL DECLINES RUSS ENVOYSHIP

Peoria Editor in Letter to President Says Circumstances Preclude His Taking Post.

'MISREPRESENTED IN PRESS'

Chief Executive in Reply Accepts Declination With Regret—Charles R.
Crane's Name Mentioned in Connection With Place.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Henry M. Pindell of Peoria, who was recently nominated and confirmed as ambassador to Russia, has declined the appointment, according to a letter to the president, made public at the White House.

In a letter sent to President Wilson Mr. Pindell states that circumstances have arisen which render it impossible for him to undertake the mission. He asserts he has been put in a false light by certain "gross misrepresentations in the public press."

In a reply to the resignation, the president expressed his unqualified confidence in Mr. Pindell's ability, character and entire suitability for the Russian post. Mr. Pindell's letter follows:

Pindell's Letter to President.
"Peoria, Ill., Jan. 28.—Dear Mr. President: I deeply appreciate the honor you have done me in nominating me ambassador to Russia and the very great compliment paid me by the senate in confirming the nomination by unanimous vote. I had hoped and confidently expected when you asked me to accept the post that I could do so at once and take up the work at a very early date.

"I am, therefore, the more embarrassed to find that circumstances have arisen which will render it impossible for me to undertake the mission.

Misrepresented by Press.
"I have, as you know, been put in a very false light by certain gross misrepresentations in the public press, and while it is true that these have been cleared away and the nomination accepted in its true light after a thorough and dispassionate investigation, I feel that it would be more delicate for me to decline the appointment than to accept it. No controversy of this kind should surround the appointment of an ambassador to a country which cannot be expected to be familiar with the real circumstances as they are known at home. There should be nothing personal to talk about or explain there as far as the ambassador himself is concerned.

"I beg, therefore, that trusting me to be guided by my own instinct in this matter, you will accept my assurances of deep gratitude for the honor you have sought to do me and permit me, with genuine regret, but with no hesitation of judgment, to decline the appointment.

"With sentiments of distinguished consideration, believe me to be, Mr. President, your obedient servant.

"HENRY M. PINDELL."

President Wilson's Reply.
The president's reply follows:

"Dear Mr. Pindell: Your letter does great credit to your delicate sense of propriety and serves to increase, if that were possible, my admiration for you and my confidence in your eminent fitness for the mission which you now decline.

"I can but yield to your judgment in the matter; because it is clear to me that, feeling as you do, whether you are fully justified in that feeling or not, you would not be comfortable or happy in the post. I therefore, cannot insist. You will allow me, however, I hope, to express my deep regret. I know your qualities so well and was so anxious to see you at St. Petersburg that I feel a keen disappointment. It is only a very imperfect consolation that I may yet again express my unqualified confidence in your ability, your character, your discretion and your entire suitability for such a post.

"Cordially and sincerely yours.

"WOODROW WILSON."

Appointment Caused Criticism.
The appointment of Pindell caused much adverse criticism, chiefly because it was declared he had an understanding whereby he was to hold the post for a year, enjoy his time traveling abroad and then resign.

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis was alleged to have written a letter to Pindell, outlining the details under which the ambassadorship was to be accepted. Lewis, however, denounced the letter as a forgery.

Soon after Pindell's declination reports became current in official circles that Charles R. Crane of Chicago will shortly be nominated by President Wilson for the Russian post.

Mr. Crane had luncheon with President Wilson last Friday and at that time a report spread that he would soon be nominated for some important diplomatic post, the name of which was withheld for the time being. It now is regarded as certain that Mr. Crane will go to Russia.

JUGGLING CHARGED TO NAVAL EXPERTS

Congressmen Say They Leave
Out Ships to Make Germany
Seem More Powerful.

HOLD U. S. RANKS SECOND

Daniels' Questioners Show America
Has Twenty More Dreadnoughts
Than Japan—Cabinet Officer Explains.

Washington, Feb. 3.—That experts of the navy department juggled statistics in the navy year book for 1913 so as to make the American navy appear inferior to Germany's, and thereby set the United States down from second to third place as a sea power, was charged by Representatives Witherspoon of Mississippi and Hensley of Missouri, members of the house naval affairs committee, who are opposed to a "big navy."

In revealing results of their own investigation the congressmen said: "It was developed in comparing the American navy with the Japanese navy that the American navy has 39 battleships and the Japanese navy only 19, including all those in both navies that are built and building."

Secretary Daniels was before the committee to explain the program for the coming year. He said he was not an expert, but relied for facts on the department's experts.

Compare With German Navy.
In their questioning the congressmen brought out that three American battleships, the Oregon, Massachusetts and Indiana, which are of the same tonnage, but of heavier armament than ten listed German battleships, are left out of the United States list altogether, and that the year book instead of giving the United States 36 battleships built and building, compared with Germany's 39, should have credited the United States with 39 battleships of heavier total tonnage and armament than Germany's.

The questions developed, also, that the navy statisticians for the first time had taken out of the dreadnought class the battleships South Carolina and Michigan, with 12-inch guns, and had put into the German dreadnought class four ships of 11-inch gun armament.

The year book's comparison gives Germany 13 dreadnoughts and the United States seven, while the congressmen insisted that Germany and the United States had nine dreadnoughts each.

Daniels Explains Omissions.
In a statement given out by Representatives Witherspoon and Hensley, which contained the foregoing comparisons, the secretary of the navy was quoted as saying the reason the Oregon, Massachusetts and Indiana were omitted from the battleship class was that they were old and obsolete.

VILLA PLANS TORREON ATTACK

Army on Way to Federal Stronghold, Already Surrounded.

Juarez, Mex., Feb. 3.—With his army of 12,000 rebels already advanced to points north of Torreon and awaiting word to open the attack on the federal garrison in that city, Gen. Francisco Villa planned to leave today for Chihuahua. After a stay there of several days he will go south to personally direct the opening of the battle. A courier who arrived from Torreon said the rebel advance guards had already surrounded the city, but that Gen. Refugio Velasco's federal soldiers had not opened fire.

Francisco I. Guzman, who figured prominently in the revolt against Madero in Mexico City, was executed in the front yard of General Villa's house. Guzman had just come from Havana, where, it was said, he had been given a secret mission by Felix Diaz to induce Villa to renounce Carranza and throw the strength of the revolution to Diaz.

GIVEN 5 YEARS FOR THEFT

Four Robbers Convicted of Looting
Wisconsin Post Office.

Milwaukee, Feb. 3.—A sentence of five years' penal servitude at Fort Leavenworth and a fine of $1,000 each was meted out to William Burns, James Moore, Daniel Murphy and William Houlihan by Judge Geiger in the United States district court on a charge of burglary, of which they were found guilty January 2. The men were charged with breaking into the Kewaskum (Wis.) post office several months ago. A new trial was denied.

TO CLOSE DINING ROOM OF NACHUSA

AFTER TOMORROW EVENING RE-
MODELING STARTS — ROOMS
TO REMAIN OPEN.

The last meal that will be served at the Nachusa house for several months will be served tomorrow evening, for immediately after supper the dining room will be closed until the building has been remodeled by Landlord Rice, the new owner.

Mr. Rice has completed plans for alterations in the building and within a few days will be ready to award contracts for the changes, which it is expected will require several months. In the meantime active work was begun this afternoon when a force of men began tearing out the basement, under the supervision of Contractor W. D. Baum.

However, although the dining room will be closed, the hotel will remain open for rooming purposes until further notice.

Waste of Natural Gas.

Were it possible to transport natural gas as coal, petroleum, or other fuels now in use are transported, it would be the leading fuel of the world and its value would probably exceed that of any other commodity. As it is, enormous quantities are wasted annually, quantities too great even to be estimated. The utilization of waste gas from the oil wells in different parts of the United States has been an important means of conserving this fuel, and the increasing number of plants erected and being erected for the extraction of gasoline from this "casing-head gas" was one of the most important features of the natural-gas industry in the year 1912.

Mother Would Be Interested.

A little Baltimore girl, aged seven, was not long ago visiting some cousins in Baltimore county. One afternoon a momentous announcement was made to these little cousins.

"Children," said the nurse, with becoming gravity, "you have a new brother—a new baby brother."

Whereupon the Baltimore child laughed and clapped her hands and extended her heartiest congratulations to her cousins.

"And now, children," she said, in her turn, "you must run and tell your mamma!"

Her Welcome.

Niece—Aunt, this is our new minister, who has called to see you.

The Old Lady—Indeed, I'm glad to see you sir, and I hope you will call as often as the last incumbence did.

—Puck.

That Next Morning.

A friend of mine, he goes downtown and sits up with the fellows. He lightly lays his lucre down for reds, whites, blues and yellows. He orders up a lot of things and takes a little nibble and on the check the waiter brings his name proceeds to scribble. He smokes a twenty-cent cigar and when the ministers gather, in joyous song before the bar, is he in line? Well, rather! When menials in his service range, to save him time and trouble, he looks, while saying, "Keep the change" like Monte Cristo's double. But, oh, next day you ought to hear the words of fact and fable with which he chases all the cheer far from the breakfast table! It fills the flat with gloom and strife and sorrow and misgiving—the line of talk he gives his wife about the cost of living!—Exchange.

MOTHER! IS CHILD'S STOMACH SOUR, SICK?

If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomachache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative" and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

DUNNE TO OPEN THE ASSEMBLY THIS YEAR

GOVERNOR OF ILLINOIS SCHED-ULED FOR OPENING DAY OF ANNUAL SESSION.

IS REMARKABLY GOOD PROGRAM

Dr. Patterson, Strickland Gillilan,
Bishop Dubs, Father Dunnigan and Many Others to Be Here.

The program of Rock River Assembly for the coming season is about completed. The dates are July 25 to August 9 inclusive. During the leisure of the winter days it is well to get information and plan for the "good old summer time." The local Assembly offers a tanque in quality and variety enjoyed by few sections of the country.

Unless something unforeseen happens, Gov. Edward F. Dunne will deliver the opening address. Some splendid talent has been secured and the people of this region will be happy to hear it.

Among the lecturers will be Dr. Robert J. (Catch-my-pal) Patterson of Belfast, Ireland, Dr. Wirt Lowther, Strickland Gillilan, America's foremost humorist; Bishop R. Dubs, Dr. Glenn Frank, Dr. A. W. Lamar, Hon. F. D. Coburn of Kansas, the Alfalfa man for farmers' day, and Father Patrick R. Dunnigan the Mayor-priest of Lapeer, Mich.

Among the entertainers and impersonators will be Everett Kemp and Margaret Stall. Moving pictures of the Panama Canal and Pacific International Exposition, the finest produced, to be given by the official advertiser of the Exposition; Ben Hur with the Auxetophone by Rose. The Auxetophone will reproduce the singing of Madame Schuman-Heinck. The best musicians available and procurable will be here; The Oxford company, the Hussars, Schildkret's orchestra, the Williams Jubilee Singers, the Brahms Concert company, the Pittsburgh Ladies orchestra, the Gwent Welch Male Singers, sixteen trained vocalists who will capture and hold the audience from start to finish. This is probably the most attractive feature in the musical line that will appear on a Chautauqua platform this season.

The Mission Study class will be taught by Mrs. Hallie L. Hill of New York City, the field secretary of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. Hill is a gifted and interesting woman and will come here directly from Chautauqua, N. Y., where she fills an engagement of a similar kind.

Dr. H. D. Hoover, president of Carthage College, will direct the Chautauqua Round Table. Dr. Conrad Huber of Richmond, Ind., will have the Normal Bible Hour. Among those who will take part in the Bible conferences are Drs. L. B. Wolf, Holmes Dysinger, L. A. Weigle, C. P. Wiles and Mr. Harry B. Gerhardt.

The Dixon Marine band will give at least three concerts at the twilight hour in the Auditorium. Secretary Bailey and Miss Hill will have charge of the Boys' and Girls' Physical Culture classes. The bathing beach will be better than ever. No reasonable effort will be spared to afford patrons the opportunity for a delightful and refreshing outing amid helpful environments in the most beautiful park on the banks of Rock River.

THE NE'ER-DO-WELL

A Romance of the Panama Canal
BY
REX BEACH

COPYRIGHT, 1910, 1911, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

SYNOPSIS.

Kirk Anthony, son of a rich man, with college friends, gets into a fracas in a New York resort. A detective is hurt. Jefferson Locke insinuates himself into the college men's party.

Locke, aided by Kirk's friend Higgins, who thinks it a joke, drugs Kirk and puts him aboard a ship bound for Colon. Kirk is on the passenger list as Locke.

"Broke" and without baggage, aboard the ship Kirk makes the acquaintance of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Cortlandt.

Kirk's father repudiates him, and Weeks casts him out as an impostor. Kirk meets Allan, a Jamaican canal worker out of a job. The two are arrested by Colon police for helping to put out a fire.

Kirk and Allan are treated brutally in a Colon jail by young Alvarez, commandant of police. Allan's release is obtained by the British consul, but Weeks refuses to aid Kirk. Mrs. Cortlandt gets a phone call.

Mrs. Cortlandt obtains Kirk's release by using influence with Colonel Jolson, head of the canal. The Cortlandts are intriguing to make Alvarez's father president of Panama.

Kirk's father casts him off finally, and Mrs. Cortlandt obtains for him a position on the Panama railroad under Runnels, master of transportation.

The Cortlandts and Kirk plan a picnic on the island of Taboga, near Panama. Cortlandt is detained and his wife and Kirk are marooned on the island.

Kirk kisses Mrs. Cortlandt and is then ashamed to think he has violated Cortlandt's trust in him. Cortlandt, alarmed by his wife's absence, rescues her and Kirk from the island. In the country near Panama Kirk meets a charming Spanish girl.

CHAPTER XI.

Chiquita.

THE next day Kirk borrowed a shotgun and went hunting. He wanted to get away somewhere and collect his thoughts. For the present, at least, he wished to avoid an interview with Mrs. Cortlandt.

At midday he paused in an open glade against a hillside to eat his lunch. Back of him the rising ground was heavily timbered; beneath him a confusion of thickets and groves and cleared fields led out of a green plain as clean as any golf links, upon which were scattered dwellings.

Evidently this was the Savannas of which he had heard so much, and these foreign looking bungalows were the country homes of the rich Panamanians.

"You must look where you go," she admonished.

The wood was crowded with plant life utterly strange to him. Vines and creepers abounded, from the tiny honeysuckle that reared itself with feeble filaments, to the giant liana creeping through the forest like a python, throttling full grown trees in its embrace. On every side was the never ceasing battle for light and the struggle of the weak against the strong.

Tiring of the scene at last, Kirk stumbled out into a cleared space, where he paused with an exclamation of surprise.

A brook had been dammed and widened into a deep, limpid pool to which the clean, white sand of its bottom lent a golden hue. At the lower end it overflowed in a waterfall, the purring music of which filled the glade. To step suddenly out of an uncut wilderness into such a scene was bewildering and made the American gasp with delight. The place had an air of strictest privacy. A spring board mirrored in the depths below invited one to plunge, a pair of iron gymnastium rings were swung by chains to a massive limb, a flight of stone steps led up the bank and into a hut artistically thatched and walled with palm leaves to harmonize with its setting.

After staring at him for a long time he took a lingering, farewell look and turned to retrace his steps, whereupon some one laughed at him softly. He paused abruptly, then turned around. Then with the sweetest foreign accent imaginable he heard some one say:

"You had better cross upon the waterfall, sir. There is no bridge above." After an instant, during which he strained his eyes to find the owner of the voice, she laughed again.

"Here I am in the tree across the pond."

"Oh!" Looking over the fork of a tree trunk, perhaps twice the height of his head above the ground, Anthony beheld a ravishing face and two very bright eyes. Without removing his gaze he leaned his gun carefully against a bush—firearms have an abominable effect upon hamadryads—and said, "How did you get up there?"

"I climbed up."

"Why didn't you hide under the waterfall?"

"I did not hide, señor. I am trying to reach my orchid."

A little hand appeared beside the face, and a finger pointed to one of the big air plants above her. Kirk beheld a marvelous white, dove shaped flower nodding upon a slender stalk.

"Do you wish to cross the stream?" she asked.

"If you please."

"Wait." The face disappeared. There was a sound from behind the twisted tree trunk; a twig fell, then a piece of bark, and the next instant the girl herself stepped into view.

"I was afraid you'd gone for good," acknowledged the young man gravely. He took up his gun and stepped out upon the crest of the dam.

"You must look where you go," she admonished, "or you will fall—splash!" She laughed delightedly at the thought.

"Will you promise not to whisk your self away if I look down?" he asked.

"Yes."

But even with this assurance he found it difficult to remove his eyes from her even for the brief instant necessary for a safe passage, and when at last he stood beside her he felt an irresistible desire to seize her gently so that she could not escape.

"Well," she said at length, and he found she had been standing stock still staring at her for several seconds.

"Excuse me! I really took you for a wood nymph. I'm not sure yet. You see, the place is so well suited. It—it was a natural mistake."

She dropped her eyes shyly and turned away at his look.

"It is only our swimming pool. There have been no fairies here since I was a very little girl. But once upon a time there were many—oh, a great many!" It was impossible to describe the odd, sweet sound her tongue gave to the English words. It was not a dialect, hardly an accent, just a delicious, hesitating mannerism born of unfamiliarity.

"Did you ever see them?"

"No! I arrived always a little too late. But there are such things."

She pointed to a path, saying:

"This way will bring you to the road, sir, if you wish."

"But—I don't wish—not yet." He sought wildly for an excuse to stay and exclaimed: "Oh, the orchid. I must get it for you."

"That will be very nice of you, sir. For two years I have awaited its blooming. If you had not arrived I would have got it anyhow."

"Girls shouldn't climb trees," he said severely. "It tears their dresses."

"Oh, one cannot tear a dress like this." She glanced down at her skirt. Allowing his eyes to leave her face for a moment, Kirk saw that she was clad, oddly enough, in a suit of denim which was buttoned snugly clear to her neck.

He broke his gun and removed the shells; then, leaving it beside the bath-house, went to the tree where he had first seen her. With one hand resting upon the trunk, he turned to say:

"Promise you won't disappear while I'm up there or change into a squirrel or a bird or anything like that."

"Yes, yes."

Then instead of beginning his climb the young man lounged idly against the tree.

"Funny how I found you, wasn't it?" he remarked. "I mean it's funny I should have stumbled right on you this way. There's only one of you and one of me, and—er—this country is so big!" "But the orchid, señor. Do you fear to climb so high?" she inquired, with the faintest gleam of amusement at his obvious effort to prolong the conversation.

"Oh, no!"

When he had reached the first fork he turned and seated himself comfortably, peering downward through the leaves for a sight of her.

"Not gone yet?" he exclaimed.

"That's good."

"Are you out of breath that you stop so soon?"

He nodded. "I need to rest a minute. Say, my name is Anthony—Kirk Anthony." Then, after a pause, "I'm an American."

"So am I, at least I am almost. My mother was an American."

"You don't say!" The young man's face lighted up with interest, and he started eagerly down the tree trunk, but she checked him promptly.

"The orchid!"

"Oh, yes!" He resealed himself.

"Well, well, I suppose your mother taught you to speak English?"

"I also attended school in Baltimore."

Now that the first surprise of meeting was over, Kirk began a really attentive scrutiny of this delightful young person. His first glimpse had told him she was ravishingly pretty, but it had failed to show how dainty and small she was. Her chief charm lay in a certain winsome vivacity. Even now pure mischief looked out of her eyes as she asked:

"Have you rested enough to attack the orchid?"

"Yes." He roused himself from his trance, and with a strangely leaping heart proceeded carefully to detach the big air plant from its resting place.

"Don't break it," she cautioned as he came gingerly down the tree. "It is what we call 'Espiritu Santa', the 'holy spirit' flower. See, it is like a white bird."

"May I rest a moment? I'm awfully tired."

"Certainly. You may stay as long as you wish. When you are rested the little path will bring you out."

"But you mustn't go!" he exclaimed in a panic as she turned away. "Oh, I say, please! You wouldn't do a thing like that?"

"I cannot speak to you this way, sir." The young lady blushed prettily. "Why not, I'd like to know?"

"Oh!" She raised her hand and shook her head to express the absolute impossibility of such a thing.

"Already I have been terrible. What will Stephanie say?"

"You've been nothing of the sort, and who is Stephanie?"

"She is a big black woman—very fierce. It is because of Stephanie that the fairies have gone away from here."

"I'm so tired that I must sit down. I thought these country places were unoccupied at this season."

"So they are. But, you see, I am doing a penance. I am a bad girl. I am disobedient. Otherwise I would not allow you to speak to me alone like this. You are the first gentleman I have ever been so long in the company with, Señor Antonio. For six months I must wear these garments—no pretty ones. I must not go out in public also, and I have been sent here away from the city for a time to cure my rebellious spirit."

"Those dresses must be hot."

"Oh, very uncomfortable! But, you see, I was bad."

"Not very bad?"

"Indeed, I disobeyed my father, my uncle, everybody." For the first time her eyes grew bright with anger. "But I did not wish to be married."

"Now I see. They wanted you to marry some fellow you don't like? It's awful to marry somebody you don't like," he declared, with such earnest conviction that she inquired quickly:

"Ah, then are you married?"

"No! But everybody says it's positively criminal to marry without love."

"The gentleman is very handsome."

He shuddered. "Beware of handsome men. If you have any idea of marriage select a large, plain man with blue eyes and light hair."

"I do not know such a person."

"Not yet, of course—that is, not well enough to marry him."

"It is not nice to speak of such things," said the young lady primly. "And it is not nice also to speak with strange gentlemen who come out of the forest when one is doing penance."

"Will you catch it for talking to me?"

"Oh, yes. It is not allowed."

"Then I suppose I'd better leave." Anthony settled himself more comfortably upon the bench. "And yet there is nothing really wrong about it, is there? Why, it's done every day in my country. Besides, who's going to know?"

"The padre. I tell him everything."

"How does a fellow ever get acquainted with a girl down here? How does he get a chance to propose?"

"One's people attend to that, of course," she managed to say at length, then changed the subject quickly.

"What did you say is your whole name?"

"Kirk Anthony."

"Keer! It has a funny sound, has it not?"

"I never noticed it. And yours?"

"My name is Chiquita."

He repeated it after her. "It's pretty. What is your last name?"

"That is it. If I told you my first name you could not use it. It would not be proper."

"It ought to be something like Ariel. That means 'spirit of the air and water,' I believe. Ariel Chiquita. No, they don't go together. See here, Miss Chiquita, may I call on you?"

"Oh!" She lifted her brows in amazement.

"Such ideas! Of a certainly not!"

"Why?"

"You do not understand. Our young men do not do those things."

"Then I'll do whatever is customary—really I will—but I'm awfully anxious to see you again—and—"

"I do not know you. My father—"

"I'll look up Mr. Chiquita and be introduced."

At this the young lady began to rock back and forth in an abandon of merriment.

"For two weeks yet I must remain here alone with Stephanie." She regarded him mournfully. "Every day I must do my penance and think of my sins and—perhaps look for orchids."

"Tomorrow?" he inquired breathlessly. "Do you intend to hunt orchids to-morrow?"

Instead of answering she started to her feet with a little cry, and he did likewise. Back of them had sounded an exclamation—it was more like the snort of a wild animal than a spoken word—and there, ten feet away, stood a tall, copper colored negress, her eyes blazing, her nostrils dilated, a look of utmost fury upon her face.

"Stephanie," exclaimed the girl, "you frightened me!"

The negress strode to her, speaking rapidly in Spanish, then turned upon Kirk.

"What do you want here?" she cried menacingly. She had thrust her charge behind her and now pierced him with her eyes.

"Miss Chiquita"—he began, at which that young lady broke into another peal of silvery laughter and chattered to her servant. But her words, instead of placating the black woman, only added to her fury. She pointed with quivering hand to the path along the creek bank and cried:

"Go! Go quick, you man!" Then to her charge: "You bad, bad! Go to the house!"

"Miss Chiquita hasn't done anything to make you huffy. I came out of the woods yonder, and she was good enough to direct me to the road."

But Stephanie was not to be appeased. She stamped her flat foot and repeated her command in so savage a tone that Kirk perceived the uselessness of trying to explain. He looked appealingly at the girl, but she merely nodded her head and motioned him to be gone.

That evening he sat for a long time alone on the gallery of his hotel, his spirit uplifted with the joy of love, a thousand whispering voices in his ears. And when at last he fell asleep it was to dream of an olive, oval face with eyes like black pansies.

WEALTH OF HAIR

Parisian Sage Makes Hair Abundant and Gloriously Radiant—Quickly Removes Dandruff.

If Parisian Sage does not remove dandruff, stop splitting hair, falling hair and scalp itch, and put life and lustre into the dull, faded hair of any man, woman or child, Rowland Bros. will refund the purchase price.

Parisian Sage is one of the most pleasant, invigorating and refreshing hair preparations. No cheap perfumery odor, no disagreeable concoction, but a daintily perfumed tonic that proves its goodness the first time it is used.

Dandruff is one of the main causes of baldness, and thin, dull, faded and unattractive hair. Parisian Sage removes dandruff with one application, also freshens up the hair and beautifies it until it is soft, lustrous and abundant.

How to Make Better Cough Syrup than You Can Buy

A Family Supply, Saving $2 and Fully Guaranteed.

A full pint of cough syrup—as much as you could buy for $2.50—can easily be made at home. You will find nothing that takes hold of the ordinary cough more quickly, usually conquering it in side of 24 hours. Excellent, too, for spasmodic croup, whooping cough, bronchial asthma and bronchitis.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, then add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This is just laxative enough to help relieve a cough. Also stimulates the appetite, which is usually upset by a cough. The taste is pleasant.

The effect of pine and sugar syrup on the inflamed membranes is well known. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in gualacal and other natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup remedy has often been imitated, but the old successful mixture has never been equaled. It is now used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Oyster Pirate.

The oyster pirate, like the reckless woodcutter, has no thought for the future. His thought is only for the season. The holding in reserve of oyster beds in order that the oyster may multiply and return a thousand-fold the temporary care of the young he regarded as an assault upon his rights to gather the bivalve wherever he chooses. He should have no mercy from the law. The oyster should be protected at all costs, and both state and federal governments can use their powers to no better purpose than in warding off all risk of its extinction.

Real Joy Thrill.

Old Peterby is rich and stingy. In the event of his death his nephew will inherit his property. A friend of the family said to the old gentleman: "I hear your nephew is going to marry. On that occasion you ought to do something to make him happy." "I will," said Peterby; "I'll pretend that I am dangerously ill."

OUCH! ACHING JOINTS, RUB RHEUMATIC PAIN

Rub Rheumatism Away With Small Trial Bottle of Penetrating Old St. Jacobs Oil.

Rheumatism is "pain only." Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Stop drugging! Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" directly upon the "tender spot" and relief comes instantly.

"St. Jacobs Oil" is a harmless rheumatism cure which never disappoints and can not burn the skin.

Limber up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacobs Oil" from any drug store and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic pain, soreness and stiffness.

Don't suffer! Relief and a cure await you. "St. Jacobs Oil" is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, back ache, sprains and swellings.

First Sunday School.

Robert Raikes, the man who founded the modern Sunday school, was a journalist with a passion for what he termed "botanizing in human nature."

His great experiment is said to have been suggested by the disturbance caused by crowds of little ragamuffins playing beneath his window on Sunday afternoons when he was correcting proofs. "Why should they not be got together and taught the elements of religion and good behavior?" he asked himself, and answered the question by establishing the first Sunday school in Gloucester, England, in 1780. It was characteristic of the man that in his school scheme he laid as great stress upon the inculcation of "manners" as on the teaching of the catechism.

They "Monkeyed" With Fire.

An attempt to imitate their caretaker's operation of an oil heating stove cost the lives of nine monkeys and resulted in the destruction of the shelter house at Riverside park, Indianapolis. The monkeys had been housed in the shelter house until their permanent winter quarters were ready. In some manner they opened the door of their cage and began playing with the oil stove. The stove exploded, setting fire to the house. The monkeys were burned to death before they could be rescued. The loss is estimated at $20,000.

Crete's Long Siege.

Crete endured the longest siege on record, beside which Troy's ten years seem but a skirmish. In 1648 the Turks, attempting to conquer the island, laid siege to the capital city of Candia, which, however, did not surrender until September, 1669, after 21 years. Again in 1821, when the Cretans revolted, the defeated Turks were able to hold the fortified cities against all attacks, and many of them were still uncaptured when the powers intervened nine years later.

Henry C. Stuart was inaugurated as governor of Virginia on February 2 with quite imposing ceremonies. He is a wealthy member of one of the state's oldest families.

President Tells Them He Waits for Party.

Declares That He Must Not Express Opinion on Suffrage Until the Democrats Act.

Washington, Feb. 3.—President Wilson declared that he must await the expression of the attitude of the Democratic party on the subject before he gave his opinion on the question of woman suffrage.

When 400 working girls, representing ten states and more than 50 industries, called at the White House the president explained to them that he could not take the initiative in endorsing any legislation and that woman suffrage would have to be supported by the Democratic party before he would express his views upon it.

A sensational feature occurred when Mrs. Glendower Evans of Boston virtually accused the president of duplicity in connection with the woman suffrage movement. She told the president that he had almost told the suffragists at Sea Girt that he favored the woman suffrage movement.

"That is what you told us when you were gunning for votes," she said.

President Wilson laughed and said he wasn't quite sure that he was "gunning for votes," and dodged the inquiry.

"I can only speak for my party," said the president.

When Mrs. Evans fairly shouted at him: "What answer will you let us take to the women who await outside?" President Wilson merely contented himself with saying that they understood what his attitude and his embarrassments were. Then he asked that he might be allowed to meet all the working women who were outside, and closed the speechmaking.

BLAME CAPTAIN FOR CRASH

U. S. Official Orders Charges Be Made Against Berry.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Secretary Redfield directed that charges of negligence be preferred against Capt. Osman Berry of the steamship Nantucket, which sank the liner Monroe, with a loss of 41 lives. Investigation of the charges was intrusted to the board of inspectors at Philadelphia, which will take testimony. This action followed a conference at the department of commerce on a report of R. E. Tapley, department inspector of hulls at Norfolk, Va. The secretary announced that evidence brought out at the inspector's inquiry on the Nantucket while the vessel was making its way to Norfolk with the Monroe's survivors aboard "tends to show there was negligence on the part of Captain Berry."

PLANS TO FLY OVER SEA

Jack Vilas Accepts Boat for Long Flight.

Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 3.—L. N. (Jack) Vilas of Chicago has received from the Curtiss Aeroplane company an offer of a $20,000 flying boat for a trans-Atlantic trip in July, and has accepted it. The craft will have a speed of 75 miles an hour. It contains a 200-horsepower engine and a wireless apparatus. An operator will be carried on the ocean flight.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS FALL OFF

Loss in January Due to New Tariff $6,000,000.

Washington, Feb. 3.—During January customs receipts fell nearly $6,000,000 below the corresponding month of 1913. At the time of the enactment of the tariff act treasury officials expected to see a customs falling off of about $45,000,000 a year, so the January figures created no sensation.

FOOTBALL

Wagner, Pittsburgh's star football player, is not related to Honus Wagner, the Pirate shortstop.

It is probable that the death of Gay, a former Ursinus star, will be charged to the game of football.

The Harvard eleven has been extremely fortunate this season insofar as injuries to players are concerned.

Miller, the former Mercersburg end, is a student at Haverford, but is not playing football. He intends to enter Penn next fall.

James M. Sheldon, coach of the Indiana university football squad for the last eight years, will not return to Indiana next year.

If all the football cripples were those reported on the eve of the big games, how happy would be the life of the football coach.

University of Pennsylvania students have raised sufficient money to equip a band, which will play during all future football games.

Connie Mack is getting to be somewhat of a football fan. Connie likes the game, but says it is nothing compared with baseball.

During the twenty-four years that all-American football selections have been made only ten westerners have had the honor of being placed on the honorary list.

Captain Henry of the Brown eleven is noted for his line plunging. Henry is a fullback and is a strong defensive player, as well as a tower of strength on the attack.

BASEBALL

Many baseball scribes believe that Branch Rickey will give St. Louis a winner next season.

Ty Cobb says that Rollie Zelder is a smart ball player and will have to be watched next season.

Leach, Bresnahan and Robinson are now announced as probable leaders of Federal league teams next season.

JAMES E. GAFFNEY

James E. Gaffney, head of a New York construction company, is one of the chief figures in the graft investigation now being conducted by District Attorney Whitman.

TRY TO RESEAT MANUEL

Revolt in Lisbon Shows Movement Has Started.

Ex-King's Adherents Make Attack on Republican Centers in Effort to Put Him Back.

Paris, Feb. 3.—According to dispatches to Temps, a royalist outbreak to reseat King Manuel on the throne is raging in Lisbon and spreading through Portugal.

Wholesale arrests following the rioting are reported in Lisbon.

Dispatches from Oporto state that soldiers in the garrison had deserted by the company and that street riots in which several civilians and police were injured have taken place.

Members of the chamber of deputies in Lisbon were arrested in groups and imprisoned by the military. The entire city is reported in the hands of royalists and the troops have been turned free with control of the city.

The streets are practically cleared of people except for bands of soldiers shouting for the restoration of King Manuel.

In diplomatic circles the uprising is laid to the work of Germany.

FEARS FOR SAFETY OF MANY

W. B. Wilson Says Dynamite on Vessels Peril Aliens.

Washington, Feb. 3.—That an explosion like the Communipaw disaster of 1911 is likely at any moment to cause a serious loss of life among the aliens at the crowded immigrant station on Ellis Island, in New York harbor, is the fear expressed strongly in the annual report issued today by W. B. Wilson, secretary of labor.

An explosion of dynamite aboard a schooner at a pier on the Jersey side killed more than a score of persons and broke window glass over a large part of Manhattan and Brooklyn. The dynamite vessels are said to fail to keep the anchorage boundaries marked out for them by the bureau of navigation, the northerly limits of which are 6,500 feet southerly from Ellis Island.

The commissioner general of immigration reports that during the fiscal year ended July 1, 1913, 1,197,872 immigrant aliens entered the United States, compared with 838,172 in the fiscal year preceding. The actual increase in the alien population for the fiscal year 1913 was 815,303, compared with 401,863 for the fiscal year 1912.

During the day President Wilson let it be known that while he would not make public his position on the literacy test until he was consulted by the committees of congress, those who asked him privately for his views found that he was opposed to the proposition because he did not believe it was a fair test of character.

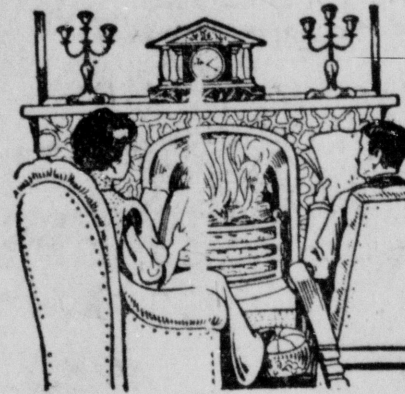

Tourists Will Play at Nice. Nice, Feb. 3.—The business manager of the New York Giants and the Chicago White Sox teams which played baseball before the khedive at Cairo arrived at Nice to make arrangements for a game the teams will play at Nice. The teams are going to Italy before coming to the Riviera and will be received by the pope on February 15, probably playing a match either on the 16th or the 17th.

White Swan Milk Rice.

This is The Milk Rice Company's description of it:

"It is made from select uncoated Rice, all foreign matter separated therefrom, leaving only the nourishing wholesome, pure Rice, in granulated form, scientifically blended with pure desiccated milk. In food value White Swan Milk Rice ranks higher than any other cereal. Highly recommended by physicians as a perfect food for children and for the sick and convalescent, for which it has no equal. It is accepted when all other foods are rejected by those suffering from a weak stomach and impaired digestion." Put up in 15c packages.
